Yes, anyone (depending on license class) can jump in and transmit over the NASA broadcast. Whether or not their transmission will be heard at any given receiving point; whether it will sound like the original transmission; whether or not it will generate a heterodyne or severe distortion is problematical, depending on type of modulation used, propagation conditions, relative locations of the two transmitters, relative transmitter power levels, etc.

In other words, this is not a simple explanation, and it could be a red herring.

Sorry about the delay in getting back to you on this. I haven't been reading here often, of late.

There are absolutely no fees required for full access to ParaNet <sm> Alpha Centauri, and your Mac-using friend is welcome. However, I'll have to register him manually, since my board now disallows new 1200 bps callers. (2400 bps modems are really incredibly cheap, and quickly repay the expense in better access, lower frustration, and lower 'phone bills.) Please ask your friend to call my home number and leave his desired sign-on name, desired password, and 'phone number in case there's any need for a call-back. I'm at 415-570-5998 (VOICE!).

The board (!!) is at 415-648-8944, and will be a local call for your friend. It's reachable by e-mail at ParaNet 9:1012/2, FidoNet 1:125/27, and RBBS-Net 8:914/207. By Internet, it can be reached at the Unix renditions of any of the preceding addresses, such as Your_Name@f207.n914.z8.rbbs-net.org Since I'm Secretary of Bay Area Skeptics and a member of the CSICOP Electronic Communications Subcommittee, much activity on the board concerns that, but I make a studied effort at diversity of views, all of which are welcome. (For that matter, the same can be said of Bay Area Skeptics.)

I hope this helps!

Hi Don. This is not the only observation of this localized time-shifting phenomenon.

There was a CE-II in the late 1950s/early '60s in which the observers saw an Adamski-like disk, complete with some kind of control cabin on top that had two portholes (on the side that they could see). The inside of the object was lit, and they saw shadows moving thru the portholes. Now, get this: as the disk maneuvered it shifted color, and as it shifted color, the movement of the shadows/silouettes through the portholes either froze or sped up to cartoon-like swiftness! You should excuse the expression, but the occupants' shadows sometimes looked pixilated (a fine old word, which means "taken over by pixies").

The simplest explanation is a localized time-shift around the UFO. This accounts for the color shift, the changes of buoyancy of the object (by shifting time, an object of solid metal can become lighter than air and float like a balloon), and the oddly discontinuous rate of activity by the occupants of the thing, whoever they were.

A localized time shift mechanism can also account for observations like:

* Right-angle turns at 1200 knots (they're really very conventional turns at a UFO time-local speed of 25 knots, accellerated 50 times by a time-shift)

* UFOs that appear out of nowhere (they were there all along, but with local time accellerated to the point that the object becomes superdense and bends light around it. Result: invisibility.

* UFOs that vanish into thin air (reverse the above process).

I may be the only person who thinks this (and I may be wrong), but Robert Lazar's "frozen candle" would exactly describe the type of localized, time-shifted field required to explain UFO performance characteristics and "magic".

Best,
Clark

Hello Leeen-da. I've been considering it, times are so bad here in the east.

Now that I think about it, I could put together a touring lecture where I'd do my usual hypnotic regressions and channel my friends Madame Blavatsky, Bonny Prince Charlie, and a cute little Pleidian named Menenlia Svelta.

At the conclusion of the lecture, I'm even considering offering some pieces from my collection of rare artifacts given to me by the distasteful Reticulan time-travelers. These include bronzed Mastodon droppings direct from ancient Mastodon mutes. They look very similar to crispy cow pies (but they're rather larger and tastefully bronzed!). Suitable for mounting for proud display: $129.95. On walnut wall plaque, $149.95. VISA, MasterCard & Discover accepted. NY, NJ and CT residents add appropriate sales tax.

Or order by phone! 1-800-SAD-SCAM. Have your credit card waiting when you call.

[Plastic replica Mastodon turds are also available: 1/2 size. Gold. $24.95. They make great frisbees for the kids!]

Now, the question is, what is causing the time-shifting? Why would shifting time change the buoyancy of an object? The only way I can think of a localized time-shift being created is with some sort of gravitation effect. This would account for any color shifts.

Gravity is a very long force - what could cause a local shift? This same question applies to Lazar's comments about element 115 and his experiences with localized gravitation. He mentioned throwing an object at this "black box" that has element 115 in it and the object being deflected. The only problem with this is that in order to create a field of such strength requires gravitational effects at much larger distances???

Any thoughts, speculations, questions?? Does anyone else have some idea??

Sincerely, Don Sudduth

There's no mention of UFOs, but here is an article from

Forgive the hype and shouting; I don't think they can help themselves.

There's as much text in the headlines as in the article.

First two predictions made by the Virgin Mary in 1917 both came true, & now...

Third Prophecy of Fatima Revealed

The NEWS blows lid off Vatican's most horrifying secret!

Terrible war will wipe out almost every man, woman and child in 1993!

By Nick Mann

An Italian journalist has blown the lid off the most closely guarded secret in the history of religion, the third prophecy of Fatima--which is the last and most important prediction that the Virgin Mary gave to three little Portuguese peasant children in 1917!

And far from describing an era of peace and happiness as some people had hoped, the prophecy foretells of monstrous plagues and war that will devastate the world and bring pain and death to virtually every man, woman and child on the planet in 1993.

'The prophecy speaks of unimaginable horrors and a punishment that will make the Great Flood look like a Sunday school picnic,' said Mario Soluri, who claims to have obtained a copy of the prophecy from a highly placed source on May 3.

'It's not surprising that the Vatican did everything in its power to keep the prophecy secret,' continued the Rome-based journalist. 'The truth is almost sure to cause fear and panic throughout the world.

'But as a human being, journalist and true believer myself, I feel that the truth must be told.'

The Vatican refused to comment on Soluri's report in spite of repeated attempts to get a confirmation, denial or statement of any kind.

A spokesman privately conceded that Soluri 'knows a lot of people' and might well have been able to get his hands on the prophecy, which has been under lock and key at the Vatican since 1943--26 years after the Virgin appeared to 10-year-old Lucia dos Santos and her cousins, Francisco, 9, and Jacinta Marto, 7, near Fatima, Portugal, in 1917

The Vatican has officially recognized that the Virgin appeared to the children on several occasions before the year was out.

And there's no doubt that two of her three prophecies have already come true.

In the first prediction the Virgin said that little Jacinta and Francisco would die soon and in fact, they died within a year.

She also predicted the end of World War I and the beginning of World War II.

But her third prediction was so horrifying that Lucia kept it to herself until the Vatican finally ordered her to put it on paper and swore her to secrecy in 1943.

The complete text provided by Soluri appears below.

Complete Text of Divine Warning:

'A great plague will befall mankind in 1993. Nowhere in the world will there be order, and Satan will rule the highest places, determining the way of things.

'Satan will even succeed in asserting himself at the top of the church.

'He will succeed in seducing the spirits of the great scientists who invent arms, with which it will be possible to destroy a very large part of humanity in a few minutes.

'Satan will have in his power the powerful who command the people and who will incite them to produce enormous quantities of arms.

'God will punish man more thoroughly than with the Flood. There will come the time of all times and the end of all ends. The great and powerful will perish together with the small and weak.

'Even for the church, it will be the time of its greatest trial. Cardinals will oppose cardinals, bishops will oppose bishops.

'Satan will walk in their midst, and in Rome there will be great changes. The church will be darkened, and the world will be shaking with terror.

'A huge war will erupt. Fire and smoke will fall down from the sky.

'The waters of the ocean will become mist, and the foam will rise to tremendous heights and everyone will drown.

'Millions and millions of men will die from hour to hour. Whoever remains alive will envy the dead.

'Everywhere one turns one's glance there will be anguish and misery, ruins in every country.

'The time draws nearer, the abyss widens without hope. the good will` perish with the bad, the great with the small, the princes of the church with the faithful, the rulers with their people.

'There will be death everywhere because of the errors committed by the crazed and the followers of Satan, who will then and only then rule the world.

'At the last, those who survive will at every chance newly proclaim God and His glory and they will serve Him as when the world was not so perverted.

The only comment I would add is that if one lived in Iraq right now, one might think that this prediction had already come true.

Hi, Dave...and thanks much for supplying David Pritchard's address at MIT. I most certainly do have some questions I'd like to ask him about the Price case.

You mention that...'his opinion is that the penile implant can be explained as Earthly (emphasis my own) material'. Do you mean that Pritchard believes the composite material of the implant to be of terrestrial fabrication, or that the material's elemental constituents are native to Earth? As you say Dave, it would seem to be extremely difficult to prove an object to be of alien origin based on physical attributes alone. For example, elemental magnesium mined on Earth would in all likelihood be identical to that which might be found on any planet, in any galaxy. The heavy elements, according to modern cosmological theory, are formed when a star goes supernova - a process which occurs throughout the universe.

However, there may be subtle differences in atomic and molecular structure which we have not yet learned how to detect. For example, even though a Colombian emerald and a Zambian emerald have the same chemical composition, a gemologist can discern the source by determining the geometry of crystallization - which is distinctive for each locale. Perhaps magnesium found on a planet orbiting Gamma Triangulum Australis might also have some elusive dissimilarity to the terrestrial element. Of course, this analogy may not hold true universally, but it is theoretically engaging.

As far as the abduction echo, I agree that an echo moderator is long overdue, since Jacobs has not been active for close to a year. However, this position should be filled by a qualified professional, not just a body to fill the slot. I wish Mike all the best in this endeavor.

Finally, if you could send me a copy of Pritchard's TREAT 11 report, I would be most grateful, and will reimburse you for your expenditure. My mailing address is:

My focus is correlating live-TV testimony from an alleged abductee that she was "regressed...a dozen times...by Dr. Richard Haines, head of NASA Special Projects..." - it appeared last week on the Ron Reagan Jr./FOX Network talk show (I have it on VHS videotape.)

- with the recent references to project VISIT here on Paranet.

As soon as she made her statement, another guest, _PHIL KLASS_ jumped on her and stated "Dr. Richard Haines is NOT the head of.." She replied "No, he's retired."

I heard tonite that MCA/Matsushita de-funded the R.R.Jr talk show on FOX-TV. (Chuck Harder's show via WWCR/Nashville, 7435 s-wave.)

Can anyone illuminate this further? I'm also studying Inslaw, the Casolaro murder, and the October Surprise (Where WAS George ?)

Any ideas for more info? Care to comment? I'd be grateful.
And hopefully not Dead. Thank you.

Again VISIT is not a NASA project. As I previously pointed out, anyone who wants to find out about project visit should try to get a copy of the 1980 MUFON Symposium Proceedings and they can read all about it. In fact VISIT was the host group for the 1980 MUFON Symposium in Clear Lake, Texas. To believe that VISIT is part of NASA is to believe that NASA hosted the 1980 MUFON Symposium. Someone better tell Oberg about this! :-)

Paul Faeder subsequently pointed out that Project VISIT is discussed in The UFO Encyclopedia by Margaret Sachs (1980).

Anyone who has trouble letting go of their belief in the rumor that VISIT is a NASA project can simply write to John F. Schuessler, the President of Project VISIT at this address:

P.O. Box 58485
Houston, TX 77058

In other words, forget about looking for "bum steers" on the Internet, Steve. You asked on ParaNet and you have been directed to the best possible source on Project VISIT: its President. If you or anyone else still suspects that VISIT is really a NASA project, why not ask him?

In the mean time please be advised that the echo guidelines prohibit knowingly posting false information.

Best regards,

Nor did I. I felt Ron was very sympathetic to the UFO community.
